EDITORIAL

Practically all parents perceive their children's education as a long endless rigmarole of obligation to be fulfilled. Once they enrol their children in a school, they expect the school to do everything forgetting the fact that teachers can only impart knowledge, and nurturing that knowledge has to be done by them. They have to create a congenial ambience at home to supplement what the children receive at school. Unfortunately this is not happening. In such a milieu quality education becomes a pipedream.

With teaching, the job never stops. A teacher works with passion, devotion and professionalism and goes beyond his/her knowledge, strength and creativity with a sense of mission and commitment. The work of the teacher is to bring out the best in the students and this magazine is a testimony to that effect. While there might be inadequacies and flaws, it is hoped that this magazine will serve the purpose for which it is meant.

Through this magazine we would like to showcase the talents of our young and burgeoning writers, essayists, poets, raconteurs and artists. Though we received a pile of write-ups, only the better ones could find a place in this magazine which serves as a forum for the students to express their views, aspiration, feelings and emotions.

We are grateful to the teachers who contributed articles which have enhanced the quality of the magazine.

We would like to express our gratitude to Rev. Fr. John Ferreira, Principal, for his timely advice and suggestions.

I owe a debt of gratitude to the members of the Editorial Team viz. Dr. (Mrs.) Neelam Mehrotra, Mrs. Maureen Miranda, Dr. (Mrs.) Leena Lazer, Mrs. Asha Sharma, Masters Anura Saran, Pushkar Sane, Nikhil Jain, Dhruv Kumar and Ananya Yadav without whose help and co-operation it would not have been possible to bring out this magazine.

Vignettes include: Ralph Parsons (inventor of the hydrogen bomb), Albert Einstein, Winston Churchill, Ignace Semmelweis, and the young men of the American Revolution. We need to see the world as a place of opportunity, not a place of adversity. We need to see the world as a place of hope, not a place of despair. The chief guest of the programme was Deputy Range Forest Officer Y.P. Shukla. Speaking on the occasion, Principal of the college, Father John Finnerty said, "We can help the foresting programme by planting trees. It is not as preserving them today, then what legacy will we pass on to our successors. We can gift our next generation the 'green gold' instead of 'oil' as staff planting trees from today."
